

Sovereignty Psychology

Couple Counsellor in a Christian Private Practice

About us:

Sovereignty Christian Psychology / The Sovereignty Christian Counselling Practice recognises the niche demand for Christian psychological counselling especially in the Western region of Melbourne. Sovereignty Psychology is in a high growth area. We are seeking to develop a dedicated couple counselling focus within the Practice. Please see www.SovereigntyPsychology.com.au for more information.

What we have to offer:

- A professional psychological counselling environment that responsibly provides freedom to develop in Christian counselling.
- Onsite or Telehealth only options available.
- Many of the benefits of a private practice, including the flexibility to choose the days and hours you work.
- Financial retainer for three months
- Full admin support
- Working within purpose-built premises designed for counselling.
- Access to an on-line diary system with SMS client appointment reminders and client management software.
- Professional autonomy while working with a team of counsellors and psychologists
- Opportunity for peer supervision
- An opportunity to help develop a Christian endeavour.

What we're looking for:

- Clinical Counselling member or equivalent.
- Desire & background to practice from a Christian perspective in your professional psychological counselling (as a significant proportion of our clients identify as being Christian and seek to integrate their biblical faith into their life including their therapy).
- Someone who would enjoy working within and support the ethos of Sovereignty Christian Counselling Practice.
- Proven experience with couple counselling
- Applicant must have own insurance

This contractual position is part-time. A combination of business-hours and after-hours sessions is required.

To apply, please contact Peter Stanton on 03 8742 4468 or email your resume and cover letter to Admin@SovereigntyPsychology.com.au.